

Every Friday millions of pupils around the world go on strike for their future, leaving their school to protest for the action needed to reverse and tackle the effects of climate change.

Although

some schools do not support this,

others have allowed their pupils to join the strike.

I believe all young people should be given the right to attend these crucial demonstrations.

This essay will explain the reasons why I agree with pupils being allowed to take part in these potentially life-saving protests.

CIELL Inclusive English Language Learning

<https://ciell.eu>

Funded by the Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

This research and development project was co-funded by the ERASMUS+ Programme of the European Union under grant number 2018-1-UK01-KA203-048195 and partners Lancaster University (UK), University of Cyprus (Cyprus), Friedrich-Alexander Universität (Germany), and AKTO (Greece).

This publication reflects the views only of the authors, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use, which may be made of the information contained therein.

This work is licenced under creative commons BY-NC-ND 4.0

Author: Helena Stakounis • Illustrations: Eleni Tsampra

