

Boys are expected to be the "breadwinners" and are sent to school so they can get a better job.

Due to different gender norms, boys marry at an older age and stay in education longer than girls.

For example, parents of girls expect a man to pay a good 'bride price' before he can marry their daughter.

Consequently, boys have more support to stay in school and make their dreams come true.

To sum up, both boys and girls perceive education as a potentially life-changing process.

As a result of hardship and different gender roles, many girls stop attending school

CIELL Inclusive English Language Learning

<https://ciell.eu>

Funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union

This research and development project was co-funded by the ERASMUS+ Programme of the European Union under grant number 2018-1-UK01-KA203-048195 and partners Lancaster University (UK), University of Cyprus (Cyprus), Friedrich-Alexander Universität (Germany), and AKTO (Greece).

This publication reflects the views only of the authors, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use, which may be made of the information contained therein.

This work is licenced under creative commons BY-NC-ND 4.0

Author: Chryssa Themelis • Illustrations: Eleni Tsampra

